Introducing the Wellington Regional Skills Leadership Group (RSLG)

The RSLG is a government appointed group made up of iwi, industry, worker and community representatives from our region. With their different perspectives of communities and sectors, the group will identify and support better ways of meeting our region’s future skills and workforce needs. The group is very pleased to have four iwi/Māori representatives to provide a strong te Ao Māori and local iwi voice in its work.

By June this year the group will have produced its first Regional Workforce Plan. After hearing from many regional players, the group has decided to focus the plan on these areas:

- Maximising the available workforce to meet regional demand.
- Improving awareness of and access to relevant skills development.
- Building connections between employers, educators and workers.
- Building workplaces that are worker-friendly, inclusive and where workers thrive.
- Supporting employment initiatives for young people.

As well as a focus on certain sectors such as health and construction, the plan will pay attention to communities that are under-served with training and employment such as Māori, older workers, and people living with disability.

Importantly, the group will play a key role in co-ordination of actors and initiatives in the region, to ensure we optimise our resources for the best possible outcomes

In late March the plan will be drafted, and the group will be asking regional stakeholders for their feedback.

More Whānau Facing Mental Health, Housing And Other COVID-19 Related Financial Challenges Financial Mentors Report

January 12, 2022—Press Release FinCap

Financial mentors committed to their communities across Aotearoa are coping with the increased strain created by COVID-19 – but only just.

FinCap is calling for ongoing, sustainable funding for all financial mentors’ vital work as new data reveals they’re facing increased pressure because of COVID-19, housing issues and mental health.

A survey run late last year looked to identify the impact of COVID-19 on the workload of financial mentors and on the whānau they support.

FinCap has released the resulting Impacts of COVID-19 on building financial capability: 2021 snapshot today.

“The cases are more complex, with many mental health issues. We have now had to extend the appointment times to two to three hours as opposed to the one to two hours previously,” reports a financial mentor.

Work on avoiding eviction due to rent arrears, getting access to emergency housing and costs associated with poor quality rental accommodation were also highlighted by the financial mentors surveyed.

The report finds current funding levels are behind community demand and more than three quarters of our nation’s committed financial mentors are working unpaid hours to get results for whānau.

FinCap knows Minister for Social Development and Employment Carmel Sepuloni and the wider Government recognise and support the hard work of financial mentors in our communities.

A 2020 increase in funding for financial mentoring services from the Ministry of Social Development to help with the expected increase in demand with COVID-19 has been a welcome relief for those services. Currently this is scheduled up to June 2022.

Chief executive Ruth Smithers says a commitment to ongoing, sustainable funding for all financial mentors will see them able to continue focusing on what’s important – the whānau they support.

“People working with financial mentors are often facing challenges that significantly undermine their wellbeing. The brilliant support financial mentors provide see many whānau overcome these issues and get back to what they do best in our local communities,” she says.

“Some services receive no funding and many are working extra unfunded hours. Looking for funding to make the support they provide viable means more stress and constraints on their time sharing valuable expertise with the people who need them most.”

Ruth expects workloads to increase significantly going forward and creating a resilient sector means financial mentors will be able to continue to support those in need. She looks forward to working with the Government to make sure financial mentors continue to go from strength to strength with their mahi in 2022. “Reports in recent days of around two-thirds of those in work giving a poor rating to their own financial capability to manage a three-month period without work are concerning. This highlights the need for sustainably funded expert financial mentors ready to go on the ground.”

Put Forward A Local Hero

Nominations for the 2022 Porirua Civic Awards are now open. The awards, which recognise outstanding volunteer work in the community, will take place at a special ceremony on 17 May.

“The Porirua Civic Awards acknowledge and honour the massive impact our volunteers are making in our city – their work is especially valued in these challenging pandemic times,” says Porirua City Mayor Anita Baker.

“I want to urge everyone to take the time to nominate our local legends who are the embodiment of the Porirua spirit – those who jump in to help and support the different needs in our community without asking anything back.

“The nominees we’ve had in previous years are inspiring due to the leadership, sacrifice, devotion they display. It makes me proud to see those nominations come in.”

Mayor Baker says that the awards are a high-profile way to recognise the varied and important work volunteers carry out, with more than 100 residents receiving them since they were first introduced in 1993. People can be nominated for volunteering in the areas of the environment, children and young people, social services, cultural activities, recreation, the arts, older adults, education, other suitable services.

“From helping to fundraise for neighbourhood support and residents’ associations, our Rotary and Lions clubs, to running community events, there is so much that happens in our city that just wouldn’t be possible without the time they give.” Read More

Entries close on 21 February. Details of the awards, a guide on how to make nominations, and the nomination form, are available from the Porirua City website: <https://poriruacity.govt.nz/civic-awards>.

CNA is thrilled to kick off the year with our 2022 Conference – The Engine Room: Where All the Mahi Happens on February 24th-25th at the James Cook Hotel Grand Chancellor, Wellington. We will also be running collaborative events to facilitate networking and interaction amongst attendees, maximizing discussion, relationship-building and information sharing throughout the sector. Last but not least, we will be launching our much anticipated online Tick For Governance course at the end of Day One - this course platform is a fun, easy and engaging online learning experience that has been developed to help you and your community organisation learn and be recognised for good governance skills and practices.

Struggling to retain and manage volunteers?

Meet Be Collective - the team changing the way volunteers connect with the causes they care about.

*"We're a social enterprise committed to lifting community organisations into the digital age," says Be Collective New Zealand Director, Chis Hooper.
"Our mission is to mobilise a new generation of volunteers online."*

Be Collective is reimagining ways to engage, connect and give in the community in an effort to encourage more people to volunteer.

How does it work? Be Collective brings communities together by making it easier to partner and share opportunities, organise volunteer effort and reward the people who show up time and time again for the causes they care about.

Why consider Be Collective? Be Collective is a B Corp certified social enterprise backed by philanthropy meaning the team make the most of private sector technology for social good. A big part of what Be Collective is about is building the credibility and visibility of volunteer effort - enabling volunteers to track, measure and report their activity through a verified social CV and social impact report. Be Collective offers users a suite of smart analytics and reporting that allow organisations to take their volunteer experience to the next level with advanced and custom reporting.

What are people saying about Be Collective?

Rotorua Trust Chairman, Stewart Edward, says Be Collective is a fantastic initiative that streamlines the process of connecting volunteers with organisations:

"In Rotorua we are starting to see a groundswell of support for new ways of managing volunteer effort, and Be Collective adds to that movement. Volunteers are becoming few and far between and this platform is a great way to connect people."

Volunteer Nelson Manager, Gordon Oldfield says:

"People are busy, and increasingly want to give pockets of time to multiple causes, rather than a set shift for one organisation once a week. Be Collective makes it really easy for people to look for opportunities that suit their interests and availability."

Sustainability Trust Install EV Chargers

Thinking about installing an EV charger at your home? Well, not all EV chargers are created equal. Here at the Trust, we've done our homework and have selected the best model for home use - one that is designed to balance power load safely and intelligently (yes, so you can boil your jug and charge your car at the same time).

The INCH home charger is:

- dynamic, meaning it senses power use and adjusts charge level when needed
- intuitive, because it remembers your charging habits and predicts accordingly
- three to four times faster than a three-pin trickle charger
- digital and future-proofed, because you can upgrade it through software updates.

If you've got an EV or you're thinking about getting one, you can book a free assessment with one of our qualified Home Performance Advisors to see if your home is EV charger ready. Sound good? Ready to book? Check out our EV install service here.

Solution-Focused Brief Therapy

A Three-Day Intensive Training

with Michael Durrant

The Solution-Focused Brief Therapy approach immediately appeals to many practitioners because it is considered conceptually very simple; however, it is easy to underestimate the discipline that the approach requires in order to be used effectively. Practitioners rapidly discover that SIMPLE does not necessarily mean EASY! We often joke that "there are only three questions" in Solution-Focused Brief Therapy, but those three questions demand a focus and a way of listening that is very different from the way most of us were trained.

This three-day intensive will do more than just introduce participants to Solution-Focused ideas; it will IMMERSE them in it! This is a "hands-on" course, grounded in the reality of peoples' work with clients. The course will discuss the major components or tools of the Solution-Focused approach in detail. Case examples and video examples will be used to demonstrate the various ideas and techniques in detail. These will not be "video highlights"; we will examine the process of counselling sessions, including bits that didn't work so well. Exercises, group discussions and role-plays will allow participants to experience the ideas and to experiment in a friendly environment.

The course is open to anyone but will be particularly suited to:

- People who have had some exposure to Solution-Focused ideas and would benefit from more systematic training
- People who have attended an introductory seminar in the past and who wish to pursue more focused training
- People who are interested and willing to explore a therapeutic approach that offers real hope to clients but some uncertainty to practitioners.

Michael Durrant is the director of the Brief Therapy Institute in Sydney and previously a faculty member in Education and Social Work at the University of Sydney. A Psychologist and an author with an international reputation in Solution-Focused Brief Therapy. Michael consults with agencies and teams in Australia and overseas and has presented more than 750 professional training workshops throughout the world. His vast knowledge of this subject combined with his engaging presentation style ensure that this is a program not to be missed for anybody wanting to gain a more in-depth understanding of this approach.

This training will be delivered live and in person by Michael if COVID restrictions allow.
If not, it will proceed using our Interactive Livestream Technology.
